Relaunch of Updated Bview Video Streaming Site

CHICAGO -- Beatrice Media, Inc. announced today that a total revamp of the media platform, Bview.info has been completed, and is now fully operational. After more than three months of careful and strategic planning and implementation, the new platform is now able to perform tasks that other more established video sharing and distribution platforms are able to do, but with security and privacy as a cornerstone of the new system.

DeWitt Hoopes, President of Beatrice Companies said, "The new Bview site is a refined work of art that stands on it's own amongst it's peers in the ever crowded video sharing Internet arena, but with a dedication to quality, security, and reliability. The new Bview emphasize a platform that will the place for viewers to watch a quality film, musical concert, church service, science, art or other programme of interest. Mr. Hoopes went on to say that, "The team that we at Beatrice has been loyal, dedicated, and true to the spirit of what our mission is, and have truly excelled in all aspects of ensuring that 2024 and beyond will be an exceptional endeavor for both end users, and the team at Beatrice, and collaboration has been something that has made this all possible."

A key component that is now officially part of the new Bview platform is, that users will be able to stream live, directly through Bview, and to also push their live streams to other popular sites like Facebook, YouTube, Instagram, etc., and without the use of third party devices, or software.
